

Telemedicine Consent

Telemedicine is the delivery of healthcare services through the use of technology when the health care provider and patient are not in the same physical location. Electronically-transmitted information may be used for diagnosis, therapy, follow-up, and/or patient education, and may include any of the following: patient medical records, medical images, interactive audio, video, and/or data communications and/or output data from medical devices and sound and video files.

The interactive electronic systems used will incorporate network and software security protocols to protect the confidentiality of patient identification and imaging data and will include measures to safeguard the data and to ensure its integrity against intentional or unintentional corruption.

Potential Benefits:

1. Improved access to medical care by enabling a patient to remain at a remote site.
2. Obtaining the expertise of a distant specialist, if necessary.

Potential Risks include, but may not be limited to:

1. Information transmitted may not be sufficient (eg, poor resolution of images) to allow for appropriate medical decision-making by the physician and consultants.
2. Delays in medical evaluation and treatment could occur due to deficiencies or failures of the equipment.
3. Security protocols could fail, causing a breach of privacy of personal medical information.
4. A lack of access to complete medical records may result in adverse drug interactions or allergic reactions or other medical judgment errors.

By signing this form, I understand and agree to the following:

1. The laws that protect the privacy and confidentiality of medical information also apply to telemedicine. No information obtained during a telemedicine encounter that identifies me will be disclosed to other entities without my consent.
2. I have the right to withhold or withdraw my consent to the use of telemedicine during the course of my care at any time. I understand that my withdrawal of consent will not affect any care or treatment, nor will it subject me to the risk of loss or withdrawal of any health benefits to which I am otherwise entitled.
3. I have the right to inspect all information obtained and recorded during the course of a telemedicine interaction, and may receive copies of this information for a reasonable fee.
4. A variety of alternative methods of medical care may be available to me, and I may choose one or more of these at any time. My physician has explained the alternative care methods to my satisfaction.
5. Telemedicine may involve electronic communication of my personal medical information to other medical practitioners who may be located in other areas, including out-of-state.
6. I may expect the anticipated benefits from the use of telemedicine in my care, but no results can be guaranteed or assured. My condition may not be cured or improved, and in some cases, may get worse.
